

PARENTING WITH LOVE & LOGIC

Featuring: Jenny Haynes, Lakota Technology Teacher & Independent Facilitator of '9 Essential Skills for the Love and Logic Classroom

Want to help inspire a deeper love of learning in your child?

Lakota believes in the research that links active parent engagement to student success. Attend this session to learn practical skills for introducing love and logic into your parenting approach in a way that encourages a deeper love of learning. Topics include:

- ◆ The Two Rules of Love and Logic®
- ◆ Delayed or “Anticipatory” Consequences
- ◆ Using empathy and Love and Logic one-liners to neutralize arguing

ABOUT OUR SPEAKER

Jenny Haynes has been a proponent of the “Parenting with Love and Logic” philosophy since using it with her own children, now young adults in their 20s. With a background in child psychology and elementary education, she has been living her passion as a longtime Lakota teacher and an independent facilitator of the “Parenting with Love & Logic” method. She was the Lakota Educator of Excellence in 2012 and strives to be an advocate for kids, teachers, and parents. She has run parent book clubs and professional development sessions for her peers. She is eager to inspire teachers and parents who feel joy in their passion to touch children’s lives.

Thursday, January 18
6:30—8:30 p.m.
Lakota Central Office
5572 Princeton Rd.

- Space is limited. Pre-register online.
- Cancellations and location changes would be available on the district calendar at www.lakotaonline.com.

